NEIDL Agent Incident Reporting Summary July 2015 - September 2015, Q3
Date of Incident	Incident Type / Agent Involved	BSL	Transmissable Person to Person	Description	Reportable Incident	Reportable of Clinical Illness	Comments / Corrective Actions
7/13/15	Chemical exposure to lubricant/ penetrant	Command Center	No	A public safety officer reported he was exposed to a cleaning agent used for air handler that was aerosolized into the room he was in.	No	No	Thoroughly incorporate a set aeration time into the proced
8/7/15	Sharp injury exposure to Geobacillus stearothermophillus	N/A	No	A veterinary research technician supervisor sustained a puncture wound from a broken vial that contained Geobacillus Steatothermophilus while training an employee in the use of an autoclave.	Yes	No	Hold on to a different part of the BI when removing it from the crusher
9/14/15	Outer glove rip	BSL2	No	An animal science supervisor working with his mentor in the BSL2 simulation room found a tear in his outer glove. The two inner gloves were intact. No infectious diseases or agents were involved with this incident.	No	No	This is the first such catastrophic glove breach. Should such breaches occur again, consideration should be given to more frequent glove changes for this type of glove.