

FLM: Academic Integrity Part 1

In-Class Activity: Option 2

Online Implementation

You will be put in a break-out room with a couple of other students. Once in your team, follow the steps below.

1. First, take a quick look at Boston University's Academic Conduct Code:

<http://www.bu.edu/academics/resources/academic-conduct-code/>
2. Next, working with your team members, identify a few sections of the Code that are the most important for students in your class to know. Each team member should then be assigned one of these sections.
3. Each team member will then read their section carefully and summarize some of the key ideas from that section in bullet points.
4. Then, you will briefly share and discuss your findings with your team members. You will also put together all of your bullet points; for example, you can copy them all into a shared Google doc.
5. Finally, the group will report their findings to the rest of the class. You may be asked to either add your bullet points to a class Google doc created by the instructor, your instructor may ask you to share your screen.
